CALL FOR BLOG POSTS

The newly founded Copenhagen Legal Tech Lab is honoured to issue its first public call for blog posts for the Copenhagen Legal Tech Blog.

The Copenhagen Legal Tech Lab is hosted by the Law Faculty at the University of Copenhagen. We aim to grow a proactive law, tech, business, academia, and policy community. Our goals are to strengthen the grounds for technology and the legal community to flourish. Our activities are centred around understanding technology, particularly within the growing field of legal tech and its effects on law and practice. The Copenhagen Legal Tech Blog aims to educate on technical, regulatory and ethical issues of legal tech applications. In addition, the Copenhagen Legal Tech Blog will foster innovation and new technological solutions to address our communities' legal and ethical concerns.

Blogs shall cover the following topics:

- Legal Tech
- Law and technology
- Innovation in the legal industry
- The notions covered at Law, Innovation, and Vulnerability conference

Please reach out to us if you have an idea for a relevant contribution but not listed here.

Submission instructions: the blog posts shall provide high-level analysis, regulatory insights, practical perspectives, and technical and/or philosophical commentaries. All blog posts are to be written in English. Submissions shall be handed in through the following link.

The word limit for submissions is 2,000 words.

Please, instead of footnotes, use direct links in the text.

We aim to publish the first issue of Copenhagen Legal Tech Blog at the Law, Innovation, and Vulnerability conference on April 28th, 2022. Therefore, all submissions made after this initial deadline will be considered for publication on a rolling basis.

Submission deadline: April 10th, 2022

Notification of acceptance: April 20th, 2022
